

Identify by Naming

- a. Michael Jordan says Air Jordans are the best for basketball. Who knows better? I want Air Jordans.

- b. The Surgeon General says that smoking is hazardous to your health. So, I'd better assume that it is.

- c. Pat: We ought to liberalize the laws governing the use of marijuana for medical purposes. Matt: Hey ...no way! Giving people unrestricted access to drugs will weaken the moral fiber of the country, and hamper this country's efforts at efficient production.

- d. I think I'll major in philosophy. I like the field, and I've thoroughly researched a number of career opportunities that would favor philosophy majors.

- e. Between the Nikes and the Reeboks, the Reeboks are clearly superior. Therefore, the Reeboks are the better shoes.

- f. I'm in favor of the right to dissent, but I do not believe it should be exercised. - L.B. Johnson

- g. Sure, this is the tastiest flavor of ice cream. The instructor just said so!

- h. We have to have more money for the school. So we have to either raise student fees or cut student services. But it's unlikely that students want their services cut. So, we'd better raise the fees for students.

- i. The professor is right, without question. But we'd better be prepared; she may be wrong.

- j. Senator Jones proposes that we should spend less on welfare. So, she must believe that poverty has ended in America, and that there are no more poor or needy. I suggest that the senator take a look outside.

- k. But the professor MUST always be right. He teaches philosophy!

- l. Company president: "Salaries will go up immediately." Company VP: "Salaries will increase, but not for some time."
